DATES: 1987-

ARRANGEMENT: Chronological by calendar year

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION: 0.20 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands commemorates National Arbor Day by holding annual Arbor Day celebrations. The Division organizes a state celebration, usually held somewhere in the Salt Lake Valley, and several regional celebrations at other locations throughout the state. The Arbor Day Committee, which sponsors these celebrations, is typically made up of Division employees and representatives of Red Butte Gardens, Tree Utah, and the Utah Society for Environmental Education. Arbor Day Committee minutes document committee discussions and decisions regarding locations for the celebrations, solicitation of sponsors, arrangements for speakers, and information about the rules for the annual Arbor Day poster contest.

TITLE: Boundary line settlements

DATES: 1994-

ARRANGEMENT: Alphabetical by adjacent land owner name.

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION: 0.20 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands manages those lands lying below the ordinary high water mark of navigable bodies of water (UCA 65A-1-1) (2004) throughout the state. When the ordinary high water mark is not evident a boundary must be established, and a registered surveyor determines the location of the boundary. A boundary line settlement in the form of an agreement of stipulation and compromise is prepared and signed by the upland owner and the Division. These records provide institutional memory of negotiated boundaries and the documents executed during the process are recorded with county recorders. This series includes agreements of stipulation and compromise and other supporting documentation. Navigable bodies of water within the state include the Great Salt Lake, Utah Lake, Bear Lake, Bear River, Green River, and the Jordan and Colorado Rivers.

TITLE: Burning permits

DATES: 1940-

ARRANGEMENT: Alphabetical by county, thereunder chronological by year.

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION: 0.10 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire, and State Lands issues burning permits as governed by statute (UCA 65A-8-9). State law specifies that June 1 through October 31 annually is closed fire season throughout the state. During the closed season it is unlawful to set on fire any inflammable material on any forest, brush, range, grass, grain, stubble or hay land without first securing a written permit from the Division and complying fully with the terms and condition prescribed in the permit. Burning permits help to monitor the use of fire on wild land areas. They serve as legal documents assuring that the permittee is responsible for control of fire and any financial obligations resulting from uncontrolled fire. Burning permits are issued in triplicate. One copy goes to the landowner, one copy stays in the area office, and one copy is forwarded to the Salt Lake City Office. This series consists of copies of burning permits issued by Division employees and designated deputies.

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION: 0.10 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands sometimes negotiates cooperative agreements with other federal, state, or local agencies to establish management responsibility criteria for specific parcels of state land. In some cases the affected land is sovereign land, in other cases it is acquired land for which the division will have some management responsibility. Records include signed inter-agency agreements and project-specific correspondence. Agreements between the division and other government entities are generally ongoing until one party or the other decides to terminate.

TITLE: Cost-sharing case files

ARRANGEMENT: Chronological by file initiation date

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION: 0.50 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands administers federal pass-through funds to assist eligible landowners who are willing to implement conservation practices on their land. This federal assistance includes cost-sharing funds available through the Stewardship Incentives Program, Multi-Resource Stewardship, Forest Land enhancement Program, and other miscellaneous programs. To participate, eligible landowners must apply for and receive Division approval for the conservation practices they propose to implement. Once the Division obligates funds, landowners can be reimbursed for up to 75 percent of the cost of implementing the practice. They are obligated to maintain the improvement for at least ten years. The Division conducts annual inspections to ensure that the improvement or practice is being maintained. These cost-sharing case files include applications, conservative practice proposals, correspondence, funding documentation, and inspection reports.

DESCRIPTION:

In cooperation with counties, the Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands provides wild land fire protection for non-federal, unincorporated forest, range, and watershed lands. Fire reports are prepared and submitted by division personnel at the conclusion of a fire suppression effort. The reports include information on fire location and origin, land ownership, fire cause, suppression costs, acres burned, and resource damage. The reports are used for statistical analyses, occasional litigation, and determination of interagency responsibility for suppression costs. Field offices submit data electronically to the Salt Lake City office.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands provides assistance to private land owners and offers advice about preserving, protecting and managing forest and other lands throughout the state (UCA 65A-8a-106)(2004). These assessments track the risk and development of disease or insect infestation in trees. Division field staff prepare a variety of plans for private landowners, depending on the landowner's management objectives. Forest health assessments are routinely included in these plans. Forest health assessments may be used as stand-alone reports or inclusion in private-owner management plans.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands is responsible for determining and executing the best methods for protecting non-federal forest and watershed areas on conservation principles (UCA 65A-8-1 (2004)). As part of this responsibility the Division cooperates with federal land managers in detecting and monitoring forest insect and disease activity. When appropriate, the Division participates in control actions. The primary purpose of this series is to maintain a record of forest insect and disease activity statewide and from year to year. Some of the data are generated by other agencies. This series includes annual forest maps which indicate insect or disease incidence as seen aerially, and reports of conditions in Utah or surrounding states.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands is responsible for administering the Utah Forest Practices Act (Chapter 65A-8a) (2004). This law directs the division to monitor the application and effectiveness of the Forest Water Quality Guidelines (FWQG). The monitoring process involves periodic inspections of timber sale activity on non-federal lands where the landowner gives the division permission to enter the lands. The process also involves post-harvest audits to document the application and effectiveness of FWQG, and the relative success in minimizing non-point source pollution (erosion and sedimentation). Documents in the series include forms containing operator and landowner information, location of sale activity, site description, FWQG practices implemented, FWQG application and effectiveness ratings (audits), and summary reports.

DESCRIPTION:

These are plans for protecting the ecosystem and environs of the Great Salt Lake while promoting balanced multiple resource uses. They were created as part of the agency's responsibility to produce plans of this nature. The plans were created to enhance the management of the area; provide information and guidance in the form of recommendations to federal, state and local governments; and recommend legislation. Records include maps, proposals, research data, and background information.

TITLE: Inmate payroll and reporting records

DATES: 1985-

ARRANGEMENT: Chronological by month.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands operates the Lone Peak Conservation Center next to the state prison in Draper. The Department of Corrections cooperates with the Division by making prison inmates available to serve as a work force for the seeding nursery. The records document the hours inmates work and reconcile inmate payroll with Utah Correctional Industries (UCI) and with interagency transfer (IAC) charges from UCI. The series includes inmate time and attendance sheets, UCI payroll forms, IAT copies from UCI, work reports on individuals, c-notes on behavior, injury documents, and training documents for worker protection standards and equipment operations.

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION: 0.10 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands manages approximately 1.5 million acres of sovereign land. As part of management responsibilities, the Division issues and administers mineral leases for the production of mineral resources, including oil and gas, from sovereign land. The minerals dissolved in the water of Great Salt Lake are owned by the state and made available by the Division for extraction under the terms of a mineral lease when some production facilities are on sovereign land, or by a royalty agreement when no production facilities are located on sovereign land. Records include mineral lease applications, notes, correspondence, diagrams, and mineral lease or royalty agreement documents.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands manages approximately 1.5 million acres of sovereign land. The management responsibilities include issuance of mineral leases on this land where appropriate. The Division also administers mineral leasing on State lands other than School and Institutional Trust lands. If the lands under lease are put into production, the lease terms specify the period within which royalty reports and royalty payments are to be submitted to the Division. The Division uses lease information to monitor production and conduct audits of production and payments. These records include mineral production data and royalty payment information provided by the leasee for specified time periods.

DESCRIPTION:

Conservation easements are created for the purpose of preserving open space. The division currently holds some conservation easements negotiated by local governments then transferred to the Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands as holder (grantee) of the easement. The existing easements relate to protection of the Jordan River corridor, but other areas of the state may be included later. The division monitors the affected property to insure the grantor's actions on the property are in compliance with terms of the conservation easement. Conservation easements are drafted, signed, and recorded at county recorder's offices. Records in this series include correspondence and recorded documents (usually a deed of conservation easement), which includes a legal description of the property involved and terms and requirements associated with the easement.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands administers the Utah Forest Practices Act (UCA 65A-8(a) (2004)). The law requires timber operators to register with the division and to provide thirty days advance notice of their intent to conduct forest practices, which are reforestation or tree harvesting activities. Notifications include names of land owners and operators as well as descriptions of location and extent of forest harvesting. The division acknowledges registration by issuing a notification of intent number. The division also provides operators with guidance, technical assistance, and information on water quality guidelines. DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands manages Utah's sovereign lands and mineral estates for state lands other than the school and institutional trust lands. The Division also provides fire control and takes measures to protect Utah forests and watersheds. (UCA 65A-8-1). In order to carry out this mission, the Division creates both long range and strategic plans. Long-range plans have a three-year horizon. Strategic plans are revised annually and identify accomplishments and budget needs necessary to stay on track to accomplish long range plans. In addition to Division wide strategic and long-range plans, the Division also prepares strategic plans for specific programs, which are typically tied to federal funding. These programs deal with forest health, forest stewardship, nursery, forest legacy, volunteer fire assistance, state assistance, and forest land enhancement. This series includes mission descriptions, goals, objectives strategies, performance measures and budget forecasts.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands administers the Federal Forest Legacy Program under which funds are provided to the State to acquire conservation easements on private forest land. The intent is to protect environmentally important forest areas threatened by conversion to non-forest uses while allowing traditional uses of the private land. The Division works with conservation organizations and the Utah Quality Growth Commission to supplement the available federal funding. All easement acquisitions are conducted on a willing buyer-willing seller basis, and conservation easements are perpetual. Complete records are kept and referred to on a regular basis to monitor and assure the conservation easement values are protected. This series includes nomination forms, landowner consent forms, baseline data reports, option agreements, appraisals, appraisal reviews, funding information, title insurance, recorded deeds of conservation easement, warranty deeds, and rights of first refusal.

TITLE: Withdrawals of land from leasing or permitting

DATES: 1994-

ARRANGEMENT: Alphabetical by name of project.

DESCRIPTION:

The Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands manages approximately 1.5 million acres of sovereign land (UCA 65A-7-1 2004). Management responsibilities include issuance of land use authorizations such as grazing permits, easements, rights of entry, special use leases and general permits. The Division director, as trust officer of sovereign lands, periodically initiates a withdrawal of land from leasing and permitting if it has been determined that a withdrawal is in the best interest of the public trust. Withdrawals are generally temporary and provide land managers with the opportunity to look at the broad management picture as they gather data and solicit public input to assist in the development of long-term management plans. The records consist primarily of Director's agenda memoranda stating the location, purpose and duration of withdrawals.
