TITLE: Register of deaths

DATES: 1898-1941.

ARRANGEMENT: Chronological in the order reported, which is only roughly chronological by date of death.

ANNUAL ACCUMULATION:

DESCRIPTION:

The Brigham City recorder kept a register of deaths. In it he recorded the decedent's name, age, gender, race, occupation, marital status, place of residence, and date and cause of death. The recorder began this register in compliance with an 1898 law which required each physician, clergyman, justice of the peace and undertaker to keep such a register and to quarterly file the same with the county clerk or the board of health in incorporated cities (Revised Statutes of Utah 1898, Title 57, p. 474-475). In 1904, the Utah legislature passed a law requiring uniform death certificates to be kept by the state, and at that time most county and municipal officials stopped keeping death registers. However, the Brigham City recorder continued to keep this record for 36 more years.

TITLE: Town site deeds

DATES: 1870-1877.

ARRANGEMENT: Chronological.

TOTAL VOLUME: 0.20 cubic feet.

DESCRIPTION:

The Brigham City recorder transcribed deeds conveying town site lots from the mayor to individual claimants. When the Brigham City town site was originally surveyed, lots were distributed by the Mormon Church. Since this distribution was not valid under federal law, Congressional and Territorial legislation were necessary to correct the problem. In March 1867, Congress passed "An Act for the Relief of the Inhabitants of Cities and Towns upon the Public Lands" (Statutes at Large, Treaties, and Proclamations, of the United States of America, vol. 14, chap. 177). This act provided that officials of incorporated towns should enter town site lands at the land office and purchase them for the benefit of all inhabitants. Pursuant to this law, the Territorial Legislature established further regulations (Compiled Laws of Utah, 1876. Chap 4). Each person claiming to be a rightful owner of any part of this land was required to present a claim to the probate court, which was to determine the validity of each claim. Once the probate court had validated a claim the mayor was required to issue a deed conveying that land to the claimant. Each deed in this record book refers to the above mentioned acts of Congress and of the Territorial Legislature. Each deed states that the land is being conveyed by the mayor to a certain individual. Each deed describes the lot being transferred and tells the amount being paid for it. All deeds are signed by the mayor, the probate court judge and the city recorder.
